

Sorghum Furnace at Burritt on the Mountain—A Living Museum. Southern farmers boiled down the juice from their sorghum cane crops in furnaces to make a pure, amber colored syrup. In the late 19th century, sorghum was the most popular sweetener in the South.

© 2003 Burritt on the Mountain—Huntsville, AL www.burrittmuseum.com

PLACE
POSTAGE
HERE