The news accordy to my recollection do not show any further proceedings upon the judgment on bond - at least such near the case I think when I was at Sevensburg in the Fall of 1866 - Please be certain of any steps now been taken by Kircheval since or any other attorney to know the money made either out of the sheriff or out of the obligors in bond of delivery or defendants in execution. Please ascertain also if Ed Cooper is now at Shelbyville or in Washington City they can tell you at Fayetteville or Sevensburg - If Cooper is at home I wish to get him to take necessary steps to collect judgment and but if not at home I may get some one else I will write him at Sevensburg

Meppin D Cabaniss and S C Townsend, Executors of Samuel Townsend, dead.

We have received your letter of the 30th ult, purporting to us certain enquiries, with reference to your administration of the estate of said Saml Townsend, by virtue of certain provisions of his will, and we proceed to answer them seriatim -

First - You ask whether you would incur any personal risk by emancipating the slaves provided by the will of the Testator to be emancipated (excepting out of this number Virginia and Elizabeth) and paying such legacies and expences as are directed by him to be paid, if these things should be done by you before the expiration of two years from the decree of the Court sustaining ^{the} will, within which time the Contestants have the right of appeal -

We do not doubt at all in the answer which we make to this question -

As executors you derive your legal title to the property from the will, and not under the judgment and probate. These simply clothe you with authority to exercise your office. When, therefore, the will was admitted to probate, it was not only your privilege, but it became also your duty, to discharge, according to its dispositive, all the trusts of the will. And if these trusts are executed, in good faith, before a decree admitting the will to probate, has been received, the executors will only have done their duty, and would be protected altho the probate should afterwards be set aside and the will declared void. Neither the right of appeal, nor the appeal itself can operate upon the title of the executors conferred by the will, nor suspend the exercise of any power conferred to them.

When the will is once probated there is a completeness of ownership in the executor according to its tenor, which he has a perfect right to exercise - like any other owner. pro-vided he conforms his conduct to the
