like the going down of the sun, upon the shadow of evening length of darkness comes, like a heavy cloud & then we strive to sweep the soul away from its dark ground.
But out of the darkness & the desolation there is a voice that stirs the soul from its slumber. What are the disappointments of life, what are the great trials which are sent all to teach you, but they teach that preparation is the great lesson of life. It is the lesson you learn in the school of experience. It is the lesson you learn with the events of life first & afterwards with the word of God.

So many who are willing to suffer for the cause of Christ.

B's brother died in Alabama without children

Query - Does A take by distribution, and if B subsequently dies to her children exclusive of their father's?

should backside neglect to pay up the whole of his note by the time it finally comes, who we could send the note after him for collection.

I think the best way will be for you to advise backside how Austin states his case and let backside explain his plantation case as best he can. One of these parts can be settled, I think we had better take backside's note for the balance. But this should be done at once.

I would you forward the quiet claim also for backside to sign.

The account of White of Hilliard marked A was for \$72.27 $\frac{1}{2}$ reduced by proof to \$5.42 $\frac{1}{2}$ by proof reducing it - Vaughan adm^r charged himself with the whole \$72.27 $\frac{1}{2}$ is wrong he charged himself with it because he found the acct amongst his papers -

A note was found on John Vaughan in the papers of Larkin & White due to White for \$115. Which was procured away by the death of James Broder soon to reduce the amount to about \$44. which would have suited Vaughan for work about \$21.62 $\frac{1}{2}$ and ^{the adm^r} took Vaughan's note to him for the balance being \$22.48 which is here filed he being totally insolvent and unable to pay one cent - so that this statement shows entirely what has become of the \$115 note - See Affidavit B & note 1

See the recat & memo marked C. Note filed in an insolvent estate - E B Vaughan charged with acct of receipts but only obtained as his dividend out of the estate of Henry $47.62 & this is all that ought to be charged to him on this Receipt.
