any fraud - which however she denies, for she does not believe it - she was no party to it. she had neither intent purpose or wish to confederate with said Richard in fraud of his creditors, nor did her husband ever intimate or suggest such conspiracy to her. The deed of marriage settlement settles the whole contract between them - its purpose, its object and its consideration - there were no reserved stipulations and no secret covenants.
And respondent accepted its provisions and consummated her promise of marriage on the faith of said deed, without a thought that she thereby wronged any one.

And having fully assumed said bill respondent demurs thereto and for cause of demurrer sets down the following:

S. D. Cabaniss

Dear Sir,

According to promise I went to Bellfonte & obtained a transcript of the Deed from Vincent (his wife) to the Gurleys. I now repeat, what I have said to you, heretofore, that if I was willing I am not able to pay, this Vincent debt, and in as much as I am determined to pay or try to pay my own indebtedness, I am exceedingly anxious for you to take timely steps to secure your debt in this land, and then I could go to work in better health to pay my own. I enclose the transcript. I wish you to go ahead & secure your self for this land, before others undertake to do the same thing. There are vastly more debts of my own against me than I can possibly pay unless I get indulgence and there is no use, nor sense under the circumstances, in my trying to pay my own debts, if I have Huntsville, Sept. 14th, 1866.

Dear Bro. Edmondson,

I attended the trial of J. W. Parker, and heard all the testimony. True or false, it was strong in favor of Parker, and his acquittal, without any argument, was instant. The Circuit Court was in session, and two of the grand jurors were witnesses in Parker's case, and I heard that ^{the} grand jury sent for your affidavit, and had inquired for the given names of some of the persons who were Parker's witnesses. I also find a common impression, perhaps founded on what I have just told you, that the grand jury has found a true bill against you for perjury, and I have heard that there is a probability that some parties who wish to have you arrested on this charge, will write to you requesting you to come here on some business or another, that that end may be gained. I have also heard it suggested that lawyers might try to get you here, that they may get an additional fee.

Be these matters as they may, I have given you the rumors as I hear them. You will act as you see proper. I wish you and all parties concerned could and would get out of these matters without ill-feeling, or injury to reputation of selves or the friends of their cause. It may be done, may you all be disposed to stop with as little damage as possible.
