all night with her so as to blind her father and send out in the gentleman to come and see with himself as to help him from a party anything of the kind. The gentleman to whom she was engaged is a very fine young man one of the first standing, he was coming to see her the next day and got with in an hour and a half of his father's before he of his marriage, oh what do you think was his feeling when he received the intelligence we cannot imagine who has not experienced the like, he declared he would hit David, at first sight he father when he mist had he called along the way as up and made some of them taken with he thought they and when she was and they did not but they would not tell him he then suspected the old gentleman and young ladies he knew she was but they would not tell him he then got a candle and look at long the road until he found the horse tracks he then said he was satisfied that David had taken her away he then enquired of them all when they had seen her they said they had not seen her since which he then said she would send him, enough of this story, I wish I might be sensible of god changing your notion about living to be an old maid or that is anything to convince a young lady to live and live, I have there is nothing to induce a young lady to live a life single you having a lady no thought of your religion, what you said, let a god come advocating the same reason why a lady should live a single life I am sure god has sent some gentlemen or others that you could spend your life more agreeable with than I have, as for my part I shall
