My dear fellow although I intend writing a double letter, do not expect much on this second sheet, for besides feeling very unworthy (too much so, in fact, to write) I say besides that, I also need the materials for writing much more, and likewise the courage for another attempt. Friend John will tell you all the news about the boys. (However I will tell a few things. But 1st let me animadvert upon the looks of Friend John, and the I will go on with the other boys. Well, I was greatly surprised to hear of the arrival of John, and immediately upon hearing of it I went to see him, but instead of seeing the well-grown youth I had expected, I saw a small sunburnt, chap, not much larger than myself, he told me, that he had seen you at Charlottesville, that you had grown considerably, and told me that you were so much employed that you could not write. There was a young man of the name of Nash who passed through this place about four weeks ago on his way to

to the university, I was introduced to him, but had scarcely any thing to say to him. the boys from below (Taskelee) give a fine account of him, J. Clemens, W. C. Clay, Jr. and Richard Peete, are going to Taskelee, Christmas, and for myself I do not know when I am going.

I give my respects to Rufus and father, Sir, I shall be unable to write any more it is so very cold, and I am so tired, that I have to make these flourishes to keep my hand in. This last sheet was written on the 30th day of October, Sir do not send this letter, but immediately answer it.

I remain your most Affectionate Friend and humble servant,
Arthur M. Hopkins
