than that which it mostly stimulates. The former acts as a stimulus for digestion. There is a diet that may suit one might not be as suitable for another. I have always regarded it as injurious to have a strict routine in pursuing a diet. You must be patient, and select those articles which are most easily digested. I would prefer a very copious quantity of food if you have power to digest it such as tender beef, mutton and any kind of game you can get. I think great care must be taken to avoid indigestion or too much fatigue. If you do not improve under Mrs. Fearn's prescription I advise you to try the cod liver oil with the the Phosphates nourishing diet & take bath while you are not discontinued.
You may use summer if too much constipated.
Water with stimulating soap will answer the purpose. When troubled with acidity of stomach take from a scruple to 1/2 drachm of Carb. of Soda as a corrective.
You can indulge ad libitum in any of the light wines of port when not taking other stimulants. Write me soon and let me know what further suggestions if necessary.
My love to all. Affectionately A.B. Cabaniss
