HUNTSVILLE AFFORDS UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY TO LOCATE DOWNTOWN

Greater accessibility via freeways, new parking facilities, land availability for development and millions of dollars in new construction are all generating new investment opportunities for Business and Industry.

A unique opportunity has developed in Downtown Huntsville. Downtown, strengthening its bid for a share of the economic progress predicted for Huntsville, has boldly redesigned its downtown business district.

In Downtown some 126 acres, consisting of retail stores, marginal businesses and residences, have been removed and replaced with new modern structures to form a governmental center (county and city), financial center and civic area.

To place Downtown in a position to keep pace with the growing population, wealthy market and new Industry in and around the area, businessmen decided to give Downtown a multi-million dollar face lifting by utilizing Urban Renewal. The area being developed covers 389 acres (126 acres are in the final stages) and has enticed businessmen and government agencies to invest in modern buildings and rehabilitate sound existing structures.

Downtown has passed the planning stage for its greater downtown business district. The master plan dramatically shows the projects that are completed or under way. Some 157 prime acres are being made available for merchants, businessmen and investors. The plans for redevelopment of Downtown Huntsville include nine (9) more public parking garages, ingress and egress roads, a civic arts center (architectural plans completed) and sites for hotels and motels.

Downtown Huntsville presents a special opportunity for national and regional companies interested in an advantageous location. A wealth of economic factors and other information upon which to base a decision has been assembled by organizations established in Huntsville to assist those interested in the City.

NEW INDUSTRIES 1967-68

In the past year, plans for the construction of new manufacturing facilities in Huntsville were announced by Barber-Coleman Company; Automatic Electric Company; PPG Industries; and Dunlop Tire and Rubber Corporation. In addition, the U. S. Army announced plans to locate the Sentinel System Command and a U. S. Army Corps of Engineers Division Office. Facilities now under construction for these companies total 2,250,000 square feet with an investment of 60 million dollars, which will offer employment to 8,200. Expansions of these companies already planned for the next 3-5 years will require an additional 2,000,000 square feet of space and an additional investment of 75 million dollars, which will offer employment to an additional 7,000.

In the past 18 months, 20 major companies have announced plans to build new or expand major facilities within a 40-mile radius of Huntsville. This total investment is $398,644,000, which will provide 4,584 new jobs. Two of these companies already are planning an additional investment of 275 million dollars for expansion in the next 3-5 years.

In the past year the Tennessee Valley Authority announced the start of construction of a nuclear power plant 25 miles from Huntsville. The decision to build the power plant was based on estimates of future year-by-year growth in the area. The total investment is $1,176,000,000 which will provide 175 new jobs.
