THE WEEDEN HOUSE MUSEUM
1985 - APPLICATION FOR MATCHING GRANT
Page 2

- (10) The Weeden House Museum's 1985 grant project request is the publication of a tri-fold brochure with overall dimensions of 8½" x 11". Included in the brochure will be photographs of the home. It will contain brief information on its history and architecture and on the artist-poet Maria Howard Weeden.
- (11) Huntsville is a modern city expanding in the scenic beauty of the North Alabama mountain lakes region. The city has emerged as the region's hub for commercial trade, medical services, the arts, industry and tourism. The city is currently one of the state's fastest developing areas and is a national center within the high-tech industry.

The Alabama Space and Rocket Center, the state's most visited attraction, each year hosts hundreds of thousands of visitors. The Burritt Museum, atop Monte Sano Mountain in the city, is the state's fourth most visited attraction and Monte Sano State Park is one of our most visited state parks.

Cultural and historic attractions are the single most preferred activity for Alabama's visitors not "passing through" or who are visiting relatives. Huntsville is fortunate in having the historic Twickenham District, which is Alabama's largest residential area of antebellum homes. While motor tours of the District are available, the Weeden House Museum is the only home open to the public. Built in 1819, this superb example of Federal architecture, featuring exquisite handcarved woodwork, has been meticulously restored. It is furnished and operated by the Twickenham Historic Preservation District Association. Maria Howard Weeden was born and lived in the home and a collection of her works are on display.

Constitution Hall Park, a reconstruction of the site where Alabama became a state, is adjacent to the Twickenham District and one of our most visited attractions. Many of these tourists include a visit to the Weeden House. Huntsville's first pilgrimage is scheduled for April, 1985, and the Weeden House is offered as a bonus house on each of the three tours.

After several years of dedicated volunteers maintaining the home's opening hours, the first director of the Weeden House Museum was employed in August, 1985. A good working relationship with the local tourism industry has been established and press coverage has been excellent. Advantage has been taken of opportunities for inclusion in calendars and free listings. Presentations and programs are provided for civic groups.

Group tours have doubled since August. Visitors to the Weeden House numbered more than 350 in December, 1984, which is a 400% increase over December of 1983. We would like to increase by 100% the number of visitors and increase the public's awareness by 200%.
