JESSE WHITE

P. 2

SERVICES

Speeches & Lectures

Dr. White is widely regarded as one of the most compelling speakers on the issues of economic development facing states and communities, particularly those in the South. During the past eight years, he has given over 400 addresses to groups including the Japan-Southeast United States Association, National Civic League, university commencements, a joint session of the Mississippi Legislature, and the Harvard Model Congress.

Consulting to Organizations

Dr. White offers expertise in the areas of economic development policy, strategic planning for organizations, public policy development, and political planning and operations. These skills and knowledge have been gleaned from two decades of high level management at the federal, state, and regional level.

In leading the Southern Growth Policies Board over eight years, Dr. White emerged as the region's most prominent spokesman for economic development. He led the Board in the historic work of the 1986 Commission on the Future of the South, which according to the Mississippi Business Journal, "...was recognized as perhaps the most compelling policy plan ever devised for a region of the country."

Likewise, in organizational development, planning, and positioning, Dr. White brings a long series of successes. He created the Office of Policy Development in the U. S. Department of Education. At the Board, according to Business North Carolina magazine, "...leaders from Baton Rouge to Burlington agree it [the Board] has become one of the most-respected organizations of its kind in the nation. Some go so far as to claim it has changed the course of Southern history."

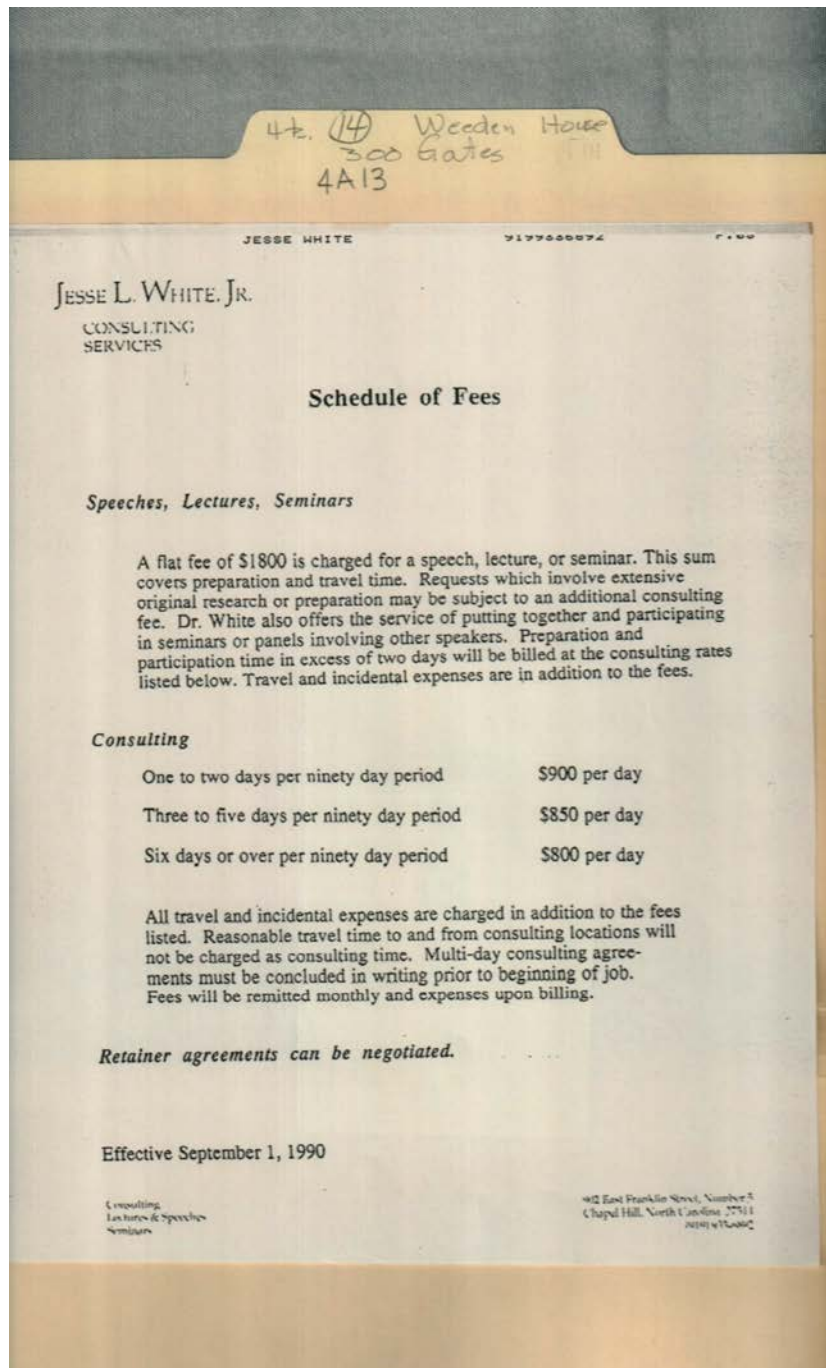

Finally, Dr. White's successful management of statewide campaigns, plus his lifelong involvement in government and public affairs, gives him a deep understanding of political planning and operations.
