MARTIN HOME ON MONTE SANO, 1815—The picture above is a reproduction of a noted 1820 painting by Henry Strode, called "The Martin Home", which was built by Thomas Martin near Cold Spring on the northwest side of Monte Sano in 1815-16. It was in this home that the first bath tub in America was used, cut from limestone by Martin. His son, Thomas Fuller Martin, was the great grandfather of Thomas W. Martin, chairman of the board of Alabama Power Co., and his brother W. L. Martin, both of Birmingham, and Hudson Strode, noted Alabama writer. (Reproduction courtesy Thomas W. Martin)

First Bathtub Said A Monte Sano Product

Huntsville is credited with many "firsts" for the State of Alabama. One by some, with at least one national "first"—the public water-works system. But there is another alleged first, of which few people know.

A home on Monte Sano reportedly contained the first bathtub in America.

Thomas Martin, who moved here from Virginia, in 1815 and completed a home for his bride on the northwest side of Monte Sano just a few hundred feet from the Cold Spring. Construction was started in 1815 and completed in 1816.

The Cold Spring, later to become one of the scenic attractions of the area when the Hotel Monte Sano was in its prime as a summer resort, furnished water for the house through a system of hollowed red cedar logs.

Piped some 200 feet, the water went into a milkhouse, and into a bathtub, which had been dug out of limestone rock from the mountainside.

This tub, 3 feet long, 18 1/2 inches wide and 12 inches deep, was in use, and perhaps still in existence, in the nation's first bathtub.

According to the October, 1911 issue of Valve World, a trade magazine published by the Crane Co. of Chicago, the tub was used in the Martin home on Monte Sano for nearly half a century.

It was moved, sometime just before the Civil War, to a home Martin had built at the corner of Jefferson and Holmes streets, approximately where the Post Office is now located. The tub was uncovered during excavations in 1926 for the Post Office, and for a while, was in the possession of John C. Stanard, a resident of Huntsville now deceased. Whether it still exists could not be determined.

Valve World pointed out the discovery of the old tub brought to light "the hoax perpetrated upon the public by H. L. Menckies in December of 1917 when, in an article in The New York Evening Mail, he alleged the bathtub was unknown in the world until the late of the last century, and that it was invented by Cornwall in 1820.

Seven years later in The Chicago Sunday Tribune, Mr. Menckies admitted that his former article was a piece of spoofing to relieve the strain of war days.

"Apparently," the article concluded, "there is no evidence of an earlier tub in this country, so that the old Martin tub may be accepted as the first bathtub in America."

The early Martin home itself was well known to residents of the city before time consumed its timbers, originally cut from trees nearby.

It was home for Martin, a son, Thomas Fuller Martin, and three daughters, Sallie, Bette and Hattie; the three girls born in the home, according to notes made by John C. Stanard.

Bette and Hattie Martin were married to two Erwin brothers, Joseph and John; Sallie was married to the Rev. Eugene Strode, the first Baptist minister to come to Huntsville.

Sallie Martin Strode was the grandmother of Eugene Hudson Strode, now one of Alabama's best known writers and a professor at the University of Alabama.

The painting of the Martin home on Monte Sano was done in 1820 by Henry Strode, a brother of the Rev. Eugene Strode.

Henry Strode is reported to have become a well known landscape artist after leaving Huntsville, and many of his paintings hang on walls throughout the South. In addition to his landscape paintings, he did many religious sketches in the churches of America between 1820 and 1830.
