About Our Soloists

MARJORIE TYRE AND FRANCES LAPP HUNTER

Marjorie Tyre was a member of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra before moving to the South. She joined the Philadelphia Orchestra as associate harpist while still an undergraduate at the Curtis Institute of Music in her native city of Philadelphia. She has appeared as soloist under such illustrious conductors as Stokowski and the late Mitropoulos. Her national tours have taken her to Europe with Bernstein conducting, Russia, Hawaii, Canada, and Berlin.

Frances Lapp Hunter, flutist, began her studies of the flute at the age of twelve in her home town of Auburn. A graduate there with highest honors in 1966, she has been flute instructor for the Auburn High School Band Camp for the past three years.

Since 1963 the Tyre - Hunter Duo (organized by Marjorie Tyre) have been concertizing in Universities and Colleges over the South. We are proud to present the premier performance of these artists in Huntsville.

My association with the Huntsville Symphony goes back many years to my high school days when I commuted 75 miles to play first flute with the orchestra. I have a very strong dedication to the Huntsville Symphony and wish to be a part of it! I would also like to enjoy the dignity, respect, and reasonable financial remuneration due any member of the music profession.

Respectfully yours,

Pat Houston

Patricia Houston's appearances as soloist and flute clinician are made available in cooperation with Hallman Music Company. Contact Miss Houston direct at 2509 A Toll Gate Road, Huntsville, Ala. 35801, or through Hallman Music Co., 2107 A Meridian Street, Huntsville, Ala. Phone 539-7503 is a native of Sheffield, Alabama who began serious musical studies at the age of fourteen. During her high school years she was a Red Band medal winner in the Alabama All-State Music Festival for five years; attended Interlochen National Music Camp and won the position of first flutist with the Interlochen Honors Band; studied flute with James Pellerite at Indiana University during the summer of 1959 and was a flutist with the I. U. Opera Orchestra; was employed as first flutist with the Birmingham Pops Orchestra in 1960; played with both the Huntsville and the Birmingham Symphony Orchestras.

Patricia Houston, flutist

After graduation from high school, Miss Houston entered the distinguished New England Conservatory in Boston where she studied four years with James Pappoutsakis of the Boston Symphony, played in the New England Conservatory Orchestra, and received her degree in 1964 as a flute major. Since this time, she has done graduate study at the Indiana University School of Music, and at Aspen Music Festival as a student of Albert Tipton. Miss Houston has studied piano and piano pedagogy at both the New England Conservatory and at Indiana University. She has studied viola and string pedagogy privately, and in 1974 was co-founder of the Huntsville String Teachers Association of which she still serves as a director.

During the past 10 years Patricia Houston has taught in Huntsville, Alabama where her flute, piano, and string students have won numerous medals and awards. She has presented recitals and flute clinics in the North Alabama area, served as President of the Huntsville Chamber Music Guild, Editor for the AMEA String Division Newsletter "Soundpost", music critic for the Huntsville Times, guest conductor for the North Alabama Regional String Festival Elementary Orchestra in 1977. Miss Houston currently is principal flutist with the Huntsville Symphony Orchestra, whose concerts are televised throughout the state. She is a member of MENC, AMEA, the National Flute Association and is listed in the "Guide to Alabama Artists" and the "International Who's Who in Music."

4. ADMINISTRATIVE:

(a) Verification of the correctness of the program proof and delivery to the Concert Hall on the day of the performance is a responsibility of the manager.

(b) The manager should keep a complete list of telephone numbers and addresses of all members of the Orchestra, Board members, volunteers and others who are involved with production of a Symphony concert. In this connection it is hoped that the manager can act as a clearing house or focal point of all Symphony activities and the manager should be ready to assist any Board, Orchestra or support group member in performing the work of the Symphony.

(c) The manager should be responsible for the reservation of rehearsal and concert facilities. The manager should maintain a file of contracts for the use of these facilities.

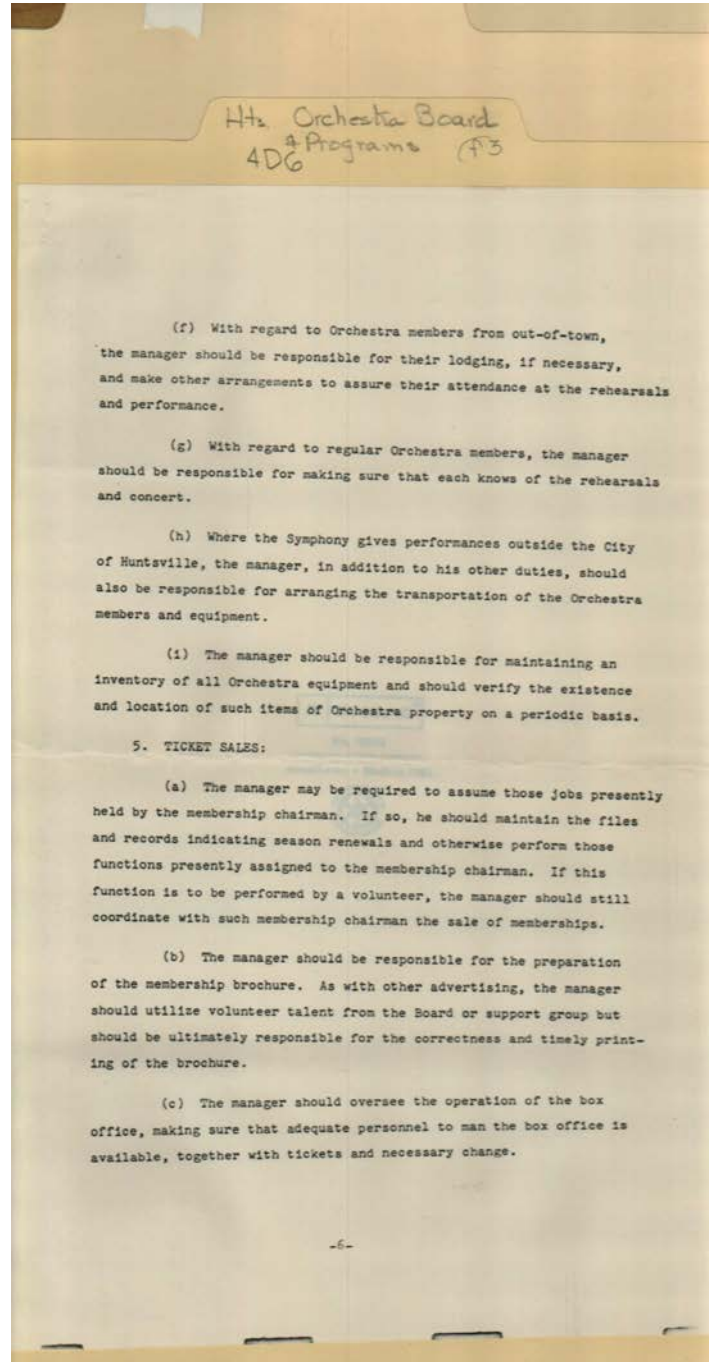

(d) The manager should be responsible for the hiring or verify the providing by others of stage hands, light operators and ushers. When a piano is necessary the manager should assure the proper delivery and condition of the piano and that the piano is properly tuned. In short, the manager should be the person ultimately responsible for making sure that all support personnel, whether furnished from volunteers, by contract labor or by the Civic Center, do their jobs.

(e) In conjunction with the Conductor, the business manager should negotiate and consummate contracts with guest artists and should maintain a file of these contracts. With regard to the guest artist, the manager should assure that proper dressing room facilities are available, that the artist has transportation and that arrangements are made for his lodging and other requirements. The manager should coordinate with the Board and support groups who have been performing this function.
