DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
One and one-half story clapboard house of frame construction with gable roof. Greek Revival entrance porch with four Doric columns and railing. Double entrance doors open into wide hall on first floor with two rooms on each side. The staircase at the rear leads to upstairs rooms. There are four chimneys on the end walls of the house and a small pent-type at the roof ridge. Windows are original with twelve panes of glass over twelve. Two windows are in front facade. Chimneys have been reduced in height. Woodwork and wooden mantels are of Greek Revival and early Empire styling. The staircase is a simple, graceful one with uncarved, shaped stairend trim. Kitchen and baths have been added and modernized. The present appearance must be quite similar to the original appearance. It is a lovely example of the small frame cottage type that the moderately well-off family lived in and loved throughout the nineteenth century and into the twentieth.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The land was purchased from the government in 1810 by John Eckford and deeded by him to Edwin Jones in 1818. John McKinley bought it in 1820. McKinley was to become a member of the state legislature that year. It was only the beginning of his political career. He went on to become U.S. senator and associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. He sold this land to Wm. B. Harris in 1824, the year McKinley bought the Weeden House in town. His residual claim and Harris' went to Lemuel Mead in 1825. Mead's will recites "land on which I now reside," and is dated July, 1832. It is however possible that a house existed even earlier.

Charles Woodson, editor and publisher of the Huntsville Democrat, lived there for many years. His granddaughter, Mary Woodson Withers, wife of John Withers, sold the place which had been inherited through her father's estate, to Reuben Chapman in 1873. It remained in that family until it sold recently to the Johnson family. It has been established that it was not owned by Governor Chapman however, but by his son and their descendants.

Philip Woodson established The Democrat October 8, 1823 at Huntsville.
