"Apples of Gold"

I AM NOT WISE

A baby has come to live with us,
The questions he asks are continuous!
As a grandmother I struggle to please,
But I do not know what makes the breeze.

I do my best as I watch him grow.
Is it right to tell him I do not know?
But where does the fire go when it is out?
And why does the moon follow us about?

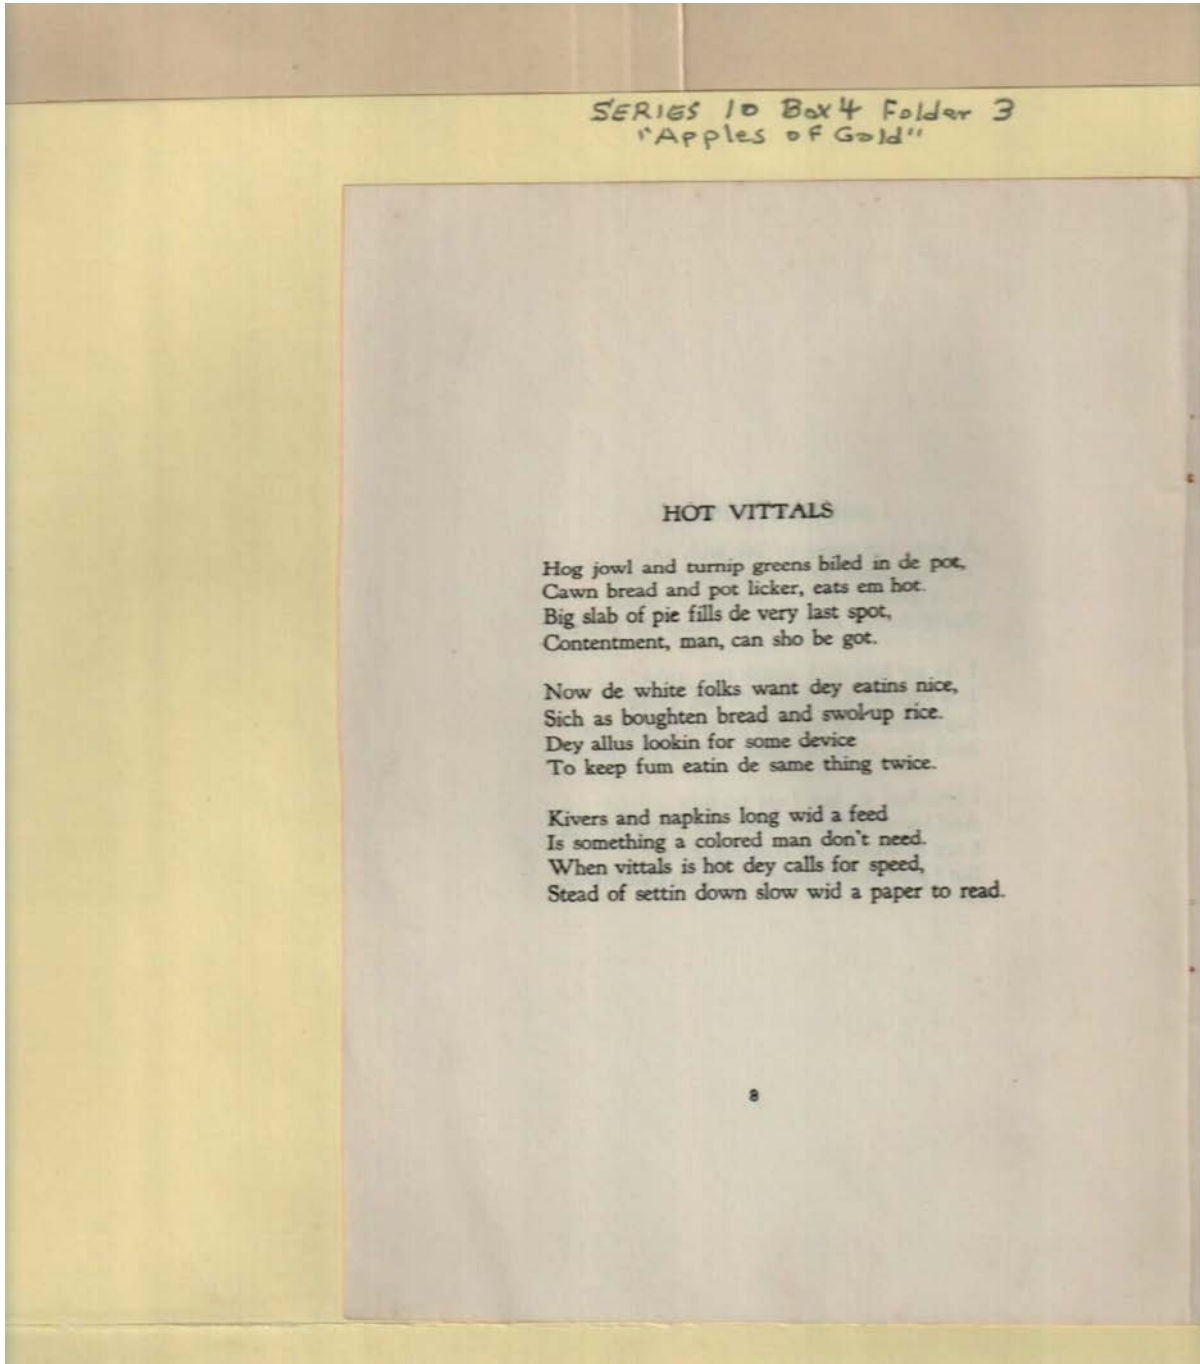

I love him so, but I am no sage
And his thoughts are deep for a boy his age.
I try to answer his questing eyes,
But I plod and blunder . . . I wish I were wise.

SERIES 10 Box 4 Folder 3
"Apples of Gold"

Martha Savage Gotto

On the following pages are some thoughts that found their way into the heart of Mother. Her interest in words "fitly spoken" has kept her personality in the Nashville Tennessean "Letters to the Editor" every year since its beginning. Her poetic words were inspired by a love for flowers (especially iris with which her name is synonymous in Nashville), love for her family and love for an exemplary character in anyone. These "apples of gold" come forth to enrich the hearts of those who will turn aside from a hastening world and pause for inspiration to walk in better paths.
