The image shows two advertisements side-by-side. The left advertisement is for McFarlane Cadillac, featuring a crest at the top, the text "McFARLANE Cadillac" in a serif and script font, an illustration of a motorhome, and the text "THE FUN DIVISION McFARLANE Cadillac" with the address "1677 Montgomery Highway/Hoover South" and phone number "205/ 979-2222". The right advertisement is for Prestige Realty Inc., featuring a large stylized "PR" logo, the text "OFFICE 823-1000", the address "3245 Lorna Road, Hoover, AL 35216", the slogan "OVER THE MOUNTAIN SPECIALIST", and the text "Serving Jefferson & Shelby Counties Centrally Located in Hoover to Better Serve You". It also includes a logo for the Birmingham Association of Home Builders and the slogan "We Sell To Sell Again". A yellow sticky note on the right edge of the Prestige Realty ad reads: "Shelby County Road & Historical Map - RFR Roberts Collection 10 Box 2, Folder 15".

In the early 1900s Henry Ford put America on wheels. Simplicity, durability and affordability were his criteria. The Model T changed the way Americans lived, bringing farm people to the city and city people to the country. The Model T touring car sold for about $850. By 1926, due to Ford's innovative assembly line production, the price of the touring car was reduced to only $290 — cheaper than a wagon and team of horses. Fifteen million Model Ts were sold — a record unsurpassed in American automobile production.

Sketches of the History of Shelby County
by Rev. E. B. Teague
No. 1

Chronological order will not be observed, but convenience. That may be done, if the sketches ever assume permanent form, with thorough revision. It is designed to give an elaborate account of the physical features of the county, and its mineral and agricultural possibilities when the materials can be collected. My memory is tenacious of facts, except names and dates, and may be relied on. The court house, mentioned in another number was first in Cahawba Valley, one mile and half above Siluria, near the present L. & N. R.R. Presently removal was voted for, the contest being between Montevallo and Columbiana. Columbiana was successful. In the jollification over the victory a large pine standing about where the present jail is, was perforated with augur holes, and these filled with powder, answered for cannon. The explosion was heard many miles around. I saw the torn and scared tree not many days later. The first jail, burnt in a few years, was built of white oak logs, well hewn and fitted together, a double wall, that is to say, a wall around a wall, with the space between filled with upright poles, closely set. Loftin Quinn was the contractor. The jail stood where Hall now lives, on the road to Shelby Springs, near the spring which in those days was one instead of the several we now have. A notorious fellow named Caldwell, constantly under indictment as long as he stayed in the county, once escaped from this jail by boring a hole through the log wall with a large augur supplied by someone without. This notorious character was finally arrested, about 1829 for killing an Indian there, then country east of the Coosa river. The report was that the Indians were pursuing him endeavoring of escape with a lot of stolen.
